Dear Friends,

While a children's book catalog is not an obvious place to write about politics, we have been caught up in the momentous "firsts" the 2008 Democratic presidential race has revealed. For the first time in United States history, an African American man is a major party's nominee for president. Also for the first time, a woman was a very strong contender for that nomination. These historic milestones brought many in our nation face-to-face with their beliefs and feelings about race and gender. At the time we are writing this letter, the outcome of the election is not yet known, but discussions about race and gender issues are important if true equality is to become a reality in our country.

We cannot help but make the connection between our publishing mission, which focuses on diversity, and current events. Many of our books, both fiction and nonfiction, are about firsts—people who have shattered color and gender barriers; people who have pursued dreams despite great obstacles; people who have made the most of their unique talents and creativity.

Our books also play a crucial role in developing a dialogue between children and adults about discrimination and prejudice. Through story, young people come to understand the injustice caused by beliefs and actions that keep people apart for reasons that have nothing to do with who they really are inside. With each book we publish, the differences that separate us prove to be far fewer than the things we have in common. In the past, some believed a person of color could never be a nominee for the presidency of the United States. History has shown us otherwise. The country is asking us to judge others by their values and abilities, not by the shade of their skin. Our books ask you to do the same.

NEW THIS FALL

NO MUSH TODAY

*Written by Sally Derby
Illustrated by Nicole Tadgell*

Nonie's had enough!
Enough mushy mush for breakfast.
Enough of her baby brother's crying.
So off she goes to live at Grandma's house.
No mush or baby there.
Grandma attends to Nonie.
Grandma takes her out into the world of grown-ups.
After a day away from home,
will Nonie reconsider her move?
Maybe . . . maybe . . .
if she can make a deal about breakfast!

Also by Sally Derby:

My Steps, pp. 16, 30

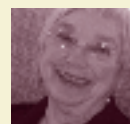

Mi escalera, p. 34

Other books with growing up/ independence themes:

Elizabeth's School,
p. 18

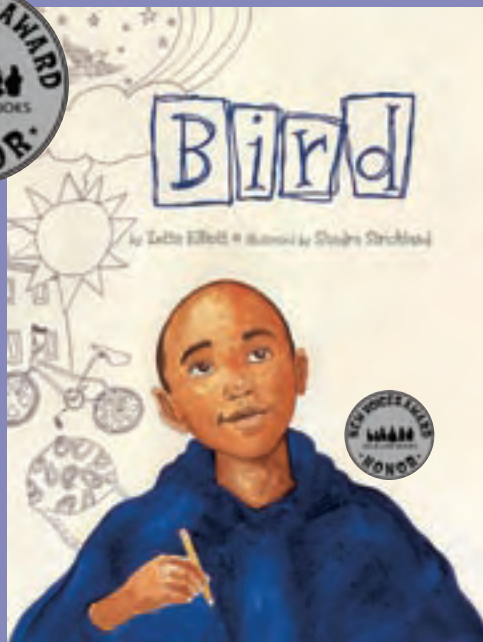

*Grandma's Purple
Flowers*, p. 16

Sally Derby is the author of numerous children's books. Among her popular stories is LEE & LOW's My Steps, winner of a Child magazine Best Children's Books Award. The inspiration for No Mush Today came from a young girl at Derby's church, and from her own childhood dislike of cornmeal mush. Derby and her husband live in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Nicole Tadgell has illustrated several picture books for trade and educational publishers, including the Americas Award-winning Josias, Hold the Book. Having recently illustrated many stories about boys, Tadgell was excited at the opportunity to draw the spunky little girl in No Mush Today. Tadgell and her husband live in Spencer, Massachusetts.

BIRD

Written by Zetta Elliott

Illustrated by Shadra Strickland

Reading Level: Grade 3

October

Ages 8–12

Interest Level: Grades 3–8

$19.95, Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-60060-241-2

7-3/8 x 9-1/2, 48 pages

DRA: 40, Guided Reading: Q

Themes: Family, Coping with Death, Art (drawing), Mentors, Urban Life, African American Interest

Zetta Elliott is an accomplished poet, playwright, author, and African American studies scholar. As a young girl she loved to escape into a good book and began writing as a way to create “a world that was better than my own.” Elliott lives in Brooklyn, New York. Bird, the recipient of a LEE & LOW New Voices Award Honor, is her first book for children.

Shadra Strickland earned her MFA at New York’s School of Visual Arts in the Illustration as Visual Essay program. She currently freelances as an illustrator and a graphic designer. Like Bird, she uses drawing as a way to interpret her world. Strickland lives in Brooklyn, New York. This is her first picture book.

Young Mekhai, better known as Bird, loves to draw.

With drawings, he can erase the things that don’t turn out right. In real life, problems aren’t so easily fixed.

As Bird struggles to understand the death of his beloved grandfather and his older brother’s drug addiction, he escapes into his art. Drawing is an outlet for Bird’s emotions and imagination, and provides a path to making sense of his world. In time, with the help of his grandfather’s friend, Bird finds his own special something and wings to fly.

Told with spare grace, Bird is a touching look at a young boy coping with real-life troubles. Readers will be heartened by Bird’s quiet resilience, and moved by the healing power of putting pencil to paper.

HONDA: The Boy Who Dreamed of Cars

Written by Mark Weston
Illustrated by Katie Yamasaki

Ages 6–11

Interest Level: Grades 1–6

$17.95, Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-60060-246-7

9 x 10-1/2, 32 pages

DRA: 40, Guided Reading: R

Themes: Motorcycles and Cars, Creativity/Innovation, Overcoming Obstacles, Working Toward a Dream, Asian/Asian American Interest

One day in 1914 when Soichiro Honda was seven years old, an astonishing, moving dust cloud appeared in his small Japanese town. The cause was a leaky, noisy automobile—the first the boy had ever seen. At that moment Honda fell in love with cars, and a dream took hold. He would one day make them himself.

It took Honda many years to reach his goal. Along the way he became an expert mechanic and manufacturer of car parts. After World War II he developed a motorized bicycle, the forerunner of his innovative motorcycles. Eventually Honda began manufacturing cars, first race cars and then consumer cars. Constantly seeking ways to make his products better than his competitors', Honda grew into a global industry leader.

Soichiro Honda had an inventive mind and a passion for new ideas, and he never gave up on his dream. A legendary figure in the world of manufacturing, Honda is a dynamic symbol of lifelong determination, creativity, and the power of a dream.

Other books with creativity and innovation themes:

George Crum and the Saratoga Chip, pp.21,33

Hiromi's Hands, pp.2,25

The Pot That Juan Built, p.28

Su Dongpo, p.26

Mark Weston is the author of The Land and People of Pakistan, praised by School Library Journal as "lively, informed, highly readable." The idea for this book about Soichiro Honda grew out of the research Weston did for his adult book Giants of Japan: The Lives of Japan's Greatest Men and Women. A former attorney, journalist, and Jeopardy! contestant, Weston is now a full-time writer. He lives in Armonk, New York.

Katie Yamasaki is a fine artist, muralist, and teaching artist in the New York City public schools. Having grown up among the "car culture" of Detroit, Yamasaki felt an immediate connection to this story. Her research for the illustrations led her to Japan to visit Honda plants and corporate headquarters, as well as Honda's hometown and other places important in his life. Yamasaki lives in Brooklyn, New York. This is her first book.

THE LAST BLACK KING OF THE KENTUCKY DERBY

Written by Crystal Hubbard

Illustrated by Robert McGuire

September

Ages 6-11

Interest Level: Grades 1-6

$17.95, Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-58430-274-2

10-1/2 x 8-3/8, 40 pages

DRA: 40, Guided Reading: R

Themes: Sports (horse racing), History, Animals (horses), Overcoming Adversity, African American Interest

Crystal Hubbard is the author of LEE & LOW's Catching the Moon: The Story of a Young Girl's Baseball Dream, recognized by Bank Street College's Best Children's Books of the Year and the American Library Association's Amelia Bloomer Project. A lifelong sports enthusiast and former sports copy editor for the Boston Herald, Hubbard lives in St. Louis with her husband and their four children.

Robert McGuire is a full-time illustrator with a degree in fine arts. His work reflects a love of diverse cultures, and his book Frederick Douglass: Writer, Speaker, and Opponent of Slavery was recognized by the Society of Illustrators Original Art show. McGuire and his wife live in Japan, where he enjoys exploring the native history and language.

Born into an African American sharecropping family in 1880s Kentucky, Jimmy Winkfield grew up loving horses. The large, powerful animals inspired little Jimmy to think big. Looking beyond his family's farm, he longed for a life riding on action-packed racetracks around the world.

Like his hero, the great Isaac Murphy, Jimmy "Wink" Winkfield would stop at nothing to make it as a jockey. Though his path to success was wrought with obstacles both on the track and off, Wink faced each challenge with passion and a steadfast spirit. Along the way he carved out a lasting legacy as one of history's finest horsemen and the last African American ever to win the Kentucky Derby.

The Last Black King of the Kentucky Derby brings to life a vivacious hero from a little-known chapter of American sports history. Readers are transported trackside to witness the heart-pounding story of a vibrant young man chasing down his dream.

HOWARD THURMAN'S GREAT HOPE

Written by Kai Jackson Issa
Illustrated by Arthur L. Dawson

Ages 6–11

Interest Level: Grades 1–6

$17.95, Hardcover

ISBN: 978-1-60060-249-8

8-3/8 x 10-1/2, 32 pages

DRA: 40, Guided Reading: Q

Themes: Education,
Segregation, Achieving Goals, African American and United States History

Born in segregated Daytona, Florida, in 1899, Howard Thurman grew up dreaming of a better life—a life where his mother and grandmother would not have to cook and clean for other people; a life where he could become a college man, honoring his late father's wishes and his own dreams.

Through hard work, perseverance, and the support of friends and family, young Howard transcended the limits on Negro education in Daytona and earned a scholarship to an out-of-town high school. His dream did not come easily and was nearly lost, until a kind act by a stranger at a railroad station aided Howard in a time of need.

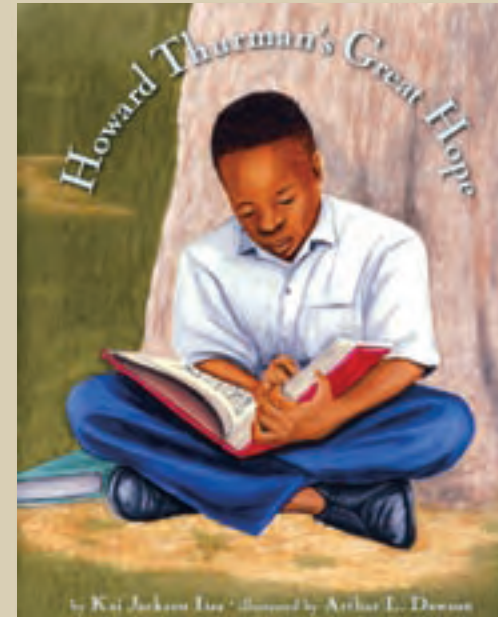

A moving testament to the bonds of community and the power of faith, Howard Thurman's Great Hope illuminates the early life of the man who became a seminal civil rights leader and an inspiration to the nation.

Other books with education themes:

John Lewis in the Lead, p.21

Richard Wright and the Library Card,
p.19

*Up the Learning
Tree*, p.19

Kai Jackson Issa is a freelance writer and managing editor with The Howard Thurman Papers Project at Morehouse College in Atlanta. After reading Thurman's memoir and hundreds of letters from his early life, she was inspired to share his story with young readers. Jackson Issa lives in Clarkston, Georgia, with her husband and their two children. This is her first picture book.

Arthur L. Dawson is a self-taught artist who grew up in Wakulla County, Florida. With an established career as a fine artist, Dawson also spends time teaching art to young people as part of his two nonprofit endeavors: the Youth Art Program and Yunique Art Parables. Dawson lives in Cocoa, Florida, and also maintains a studio space in California. This is his first picture book.

Other books with death and healing themes:

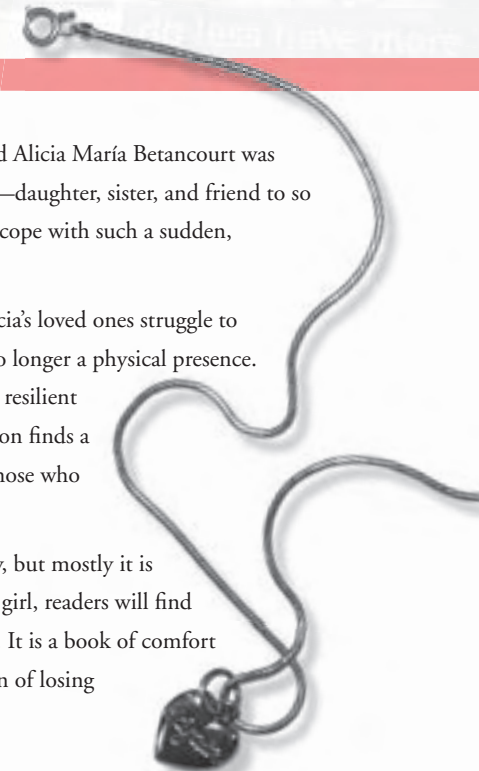

Mama's Window, p.22

Rattlesnake Mesa, p.33

On the evening of September 24, 2004, sixteen-year-old Alicia María Betancourt was killed in a car accident. Popular, happy, fun-loving Alicia—daughter, sister, and friend to so many—gone in an instant. How would those left behind cope with such a sudden, devastating loss?

Wrestling with grief, anger, mortality, and spirituality, Alicia's loved ones struggle to create a lasting place in their hearts for someone who is no longer a physical presence. They share joyful and painful memories, and discover the resilient power of enduring friendship and love. In time, each person finds a way to heal while keeping Alicia's vibrant spirit alive for those who knew her, and those who never will.

Alicia Afterimage is a remarkable story of loss and recovery, but mostly it is a story of love. In this moving tribute to an extraordinary girl, readers will find a pathway through grief and a road map to remembrance. It is a book of comfort for all—teens and adults—who seek a way to ease the pain of losing someone they cherished.

BUFFALO SONG

Written by Joseph Bruchac • Illustrated by Bill Farnsworth

Here is the inspiring story of the first efforts to save the buffalo, an animal sacred to Native Americans and a powerful symbol of the American West. From the foresight and dedication of a few individuals such as Walking Coyote came the eventual survival of these majestic animals, one of the great success stories of endangered species rescue in United States history.

JOSEPH BRUCHAC is one of the most respected and widely published Native Americans writing for children and young adults today. Jim Thorpe's Bright Path won a Carter G. Woodson Award, and Crazy Horse's Vision was an ALA Notable Book. He lives in Greenfield Center, New York.

BILL FARNSWORTH has illustrated more than fifty books for children, including Louis Sockalexis: Native American Baseball Pioneer, praised by School Library Journal for its "color-drenched paintings." Farnsworth lives with his family in Venice, Florida.

A SONG FOR CAMBODIA

Written by Michelle Lord • Illustrated by Shino Arihara

In 1975, Arn was a young boy in Cambodia when his village was invaded by Khmer Rouge soldiers. Torn apart from his family, overworked and underfed, Arn had to find a way to survive. When guards asked for volunteers to play music one day, Arn bravely raised his hand—taking a chance that would change the course of his life. Arn Chorn-Pond's heartfelt music created beauty in a time of darkness and turned tragedy into healing.

MICHELLE LORD's Little Sap and Monsieur Rodin was selected as a Bank Street College Best Children's Book of the Year. She fell in love with the culture of Cambodia when she traveled there to adopt her younger daughter, and later learned about Arn Chorn-Pond from the documentary The Flute Player. Lord lives in New Braunfels, Texas, with her husband and their children.

SHINO ARIHARA is a full-time illustrator who was born in the United States and grew up in Japan. She felt an immediate connection to Arn Chorn-Pond's story because a close friend went through a similar experience when he lived in Cambodia. She lives with her husband, a musician, in Redwood City, California.

HORSE SONG: The Naadam of Mongolia

Written and Illustrated by Ted Lewin and Betsy Lewin

With a contagious love of travel and adventure, and vivid, action-packed paintings, Ted and Betsy Lewin invite readers to experience the unique thrill of a Naadam horse race. This exciting event takes place every summer in Mongolia, where boys and girls ride half-wild horses across the open desert. “Giiiiingooooo!”

TED LEWIN and BETSY LEWIN, renowned children’s book illustrators, have been traveling the world together for more than forty years. The people and animals they encounter and the events they experience provide endless inspiration for their work. Horse Song is the latest addition to the Lewins’ series of books chronicling their adventures.

The Lewins have each won numerous awards and honors for their books, including ALA Notables, New York Times Best Illustrated Books, and School Library Journal Best Books. Both Ted and Betsy have also been awarded a Caldecott Medal Honor for earlier works.

SEVEN MILES TO FREEDOM: The Robert Smalls Story

Written by Janet Halfmann

Illustrated by Duane Smith

Seven Miles to Freedom is the compelling account of the daring escape of Robert Smalls, a slave steamboat wheelman who became one of the Civil War’s greatest heroes. His steadfast courage in the face of adversity is an inspiring model for all who attempt to overcome seemingly insurmountable challenges.

JANET HALFMANN is the author of more than thirty books for children, including several nonfiction and natural science titles. After researching African American achievements during the Civil War, she was inspired to write about Robert Smalls. Halfmann has four grown children and lives with her husband in South Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

DUANE SMITH is an artist, illustrator, and graphic designer with a degree from Pratt Institute in New York City. His wide-ranging works have been featured in periodicals, books, movie storyboards, and galleries. He splits his time between homes in Brooklyn and Albany, New York. This is his first picture book.

NEW VOICES AWARD

Established in 2000, the New Voices Award encourages writers of color to submit their work to a publisher who takes pride in nurturing new talent. "The New Voices Award is a great way for us to discover new talented children's book authors," says LEE & LOW senior editor, Jennifer Fox. "The contest encourages people who might not otherwise try their hand at writing for children to do so."

For contest rules and submission guidelines, visit: www.leeandlow.com. Entries must be postmarked no later than October 31, 2008.

"Winning the 2005 New Voices Honor Award was a turning point for me. I had actually stopped writing for children at that time, and wasn't really sure what would happen to the many stories I had saved on my hard drive. I was living in Louisiana at the time, and after Hurricane Katrina tore through the Gulf region, I started sending work out with a renewed sense of energy. A few months later, Bird began to soar!"

A MESSAGE FROM leeandlow.com

At LEE & LOW, 2008 will be remembered as the year we launched our totally revamped Web site. It is also the year we decided to dedicate our efforts to taking the online children's book community by storm.

As we prepare to tackle this monumental task we ask for your support. Link to us, review our books, nominate our books for awards, and purchase our books online from our site. If you feel strongly about our books, tell people who we are and why you like us.

In return for your support we will continue to publish the finest books we know how to make. We will bring stories "about everyone and for everyone" to the surface and let them bask in the sun. Our Web site will give you the stories behind the stories and showcase the names and faces of the talented members of the LEE & LOW family of authors and illustrators. We will develop activities—both fun and educational—to increase the usefulness of our books for parents and teachers. This is an exciting time for LEE & LOW. We look forward to sharing as much as we can with you online. See you in cyberspace.
